Young People's Mental Health Resource Pack

National and Local (Plymouth) Resources and Agencies

Updated: May 2020
Version 3

Welcome

We are aware that there are a lot of resources out there but finding them (and having time to find them) can be difficult. Therefore, this document will hold links to some websites, resources, documents etc. that may be of use to you.

If you have your own resources or come across something which you feel would be useful to others, please drop me an email and we will be happy to add it to this list and circulate and/or add it to the Zone website. Additionally, if you are aware that a service is no longer operating please let us know so this resource can be updated. Thank you.

What is Mental Health?

What is mental health?

- * Emotional, psychological and social well being
- * Affects how we think, feel and behave
- * Important and present at every stage of life—childhood through to old age
- * Affected by social, psychological and biological factors

What to look out for:

- ⇒ Being more anxious, irritable or angry than usual
- ⇒ Not being able to concentrate or make decisions
- ⇒ Isolating yourself – not seeing friends, dropping out of school/activities usually enjoyed
- ⇒ Appearing suspicious of friends and family
- ⇒ Being overly focused on certain things or being a perfectionist
- ⇒ Not eating or looking after yourself
- ⇒ Having disrupted sleep – which can mean not being able to sleep, or the opposite, sleeping too much.
- ⇒ Risk taking behaviour
- ⇒ Any change in usual behaviour

Getting help soon can...

- ⇒ Prevent problems becoming serious & reduce chance it reaches crisis point
- ⇒ Improve time it takes to become well again
- ⇒ Reduce relapse
- ⇒ Minimise absence from school/work/activities

Resilience

/rɪˈzɪliəns/
noun

1. the capacity to recover quickly from difficulties; toughness; ability to 'bounce back'.

- * Resilience can be learnt and developed and increases as we develop a range of strategies for difficult times in our lives
- * Resilience is important! With better coping strategies we have better academic/health/future outcomes; it protects us against overwhelming experiences; helps us maintain balance during stressful times in our lives; protects us from poor mental health.

It is important to look after yourself! ... but everyone is different, so it's important to find coping strategies that work for you and keep you mentally well.

Tips to help build resilience:

- ⇒ Talk to someone & 'share the load'
- ⇒ Don't be too hard on yourself
- ⇒ Create space for 'me-time' and take care of yourself physically, mentally and spiritually
- ⇒ Have a plan/routine and stick to it in a time of distress – make you feel safe and in control
- ⇒ Take control – make decisive actions (even if these are small)
- ⇒ Remember your strengths!
- ⇒ Set small, achievable goals and take things one step at a time
- ⇒ Explore ways to relax
- ⇒ Express yourself in whichever way works
- ⇒ Help someone else
- ⇒ Put things in perspective – how did you cope with a previous difficult situation
- ⇒ Know where you can access help and support (hopefully this document can help)

Notes—Schools offer:

- Please also note that, as well as the resources and services within this booklet, every secondary school and special school (secondary) has an allocated mental health lead professional that is accessible for information, advice and support. If you are unsure who this allocated individual is please ask your head of year, head of department or a member of senior management.
- Young Devon Counsellors are available to each secondary school across the city and most schools have access to a 'Kooth Booth' where young people can access online counselling support. Special schools (secondary) also have access to a counselling provision, although this may not be Young Devon. These provisions can be accessed via the individual schools pastoral procedure.
- Each secondary school (including special) can also access a CAMHS Community Worker. This worker can be accessed via the individual schools pastoral procedure.
